DIXONS CORNERS – Despite the cold and rainy weather, a crowd estimated to be over 60 people gathered outside Matilda Hall in Dixons Corners to watch, as the Matilda Monument and cenotaph was re-dedicated during a moving ceremony on Oct. 27.

Master of ceremonies, Eric Duncan, SDSG MP elect and chair of the Matilda Monument Committee (MMC), welcomed people to the event following the arrival of the Legion Colour Party who were piped in by the Kemptville Legion Pipes and Drums. He commented on the sacrifices made, the horrors endured by those who served their country during armed conflicts and noted that this would have also affected their families and friends. Duncan thanked South Dundas councillor Archie Mellan, Cindy Ault Peters, Jim Locke and Darlene Riddle, president of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 370 in Iroquois, who served as MMC members, working together with CHESTERVILLE – It was an event 35 years in the making, with the Chesterville and District Historical Society celebrating the founding of the society in 1983 with a dinner at the Chesterville Legion on Sat., Oct. 26.

Included in the approximately 80 guests at the event was founding member Jack Durant and Grace McCauley, wife of John McCauley, who with Durant, Robert Bennett and Jack Cross comprised the committee, which started the road to the creation of the CDHS. After an introduction by Gail Parker of the CDHS, Grace explained how she and her husband went to Prescott to learn how to start a museum before thanking the society for their invitation to the event.

Parker then introduced Jack Durant as the Winchester Township representative on the committee, which led to the formation of the CDHS. Durant, surrounded by many family members and friends, expressed his appreciation for the work done over the past 35 years by society members and mentioned how there is a need for more space to display the artifacts associated with our local history.

Following Durant's address, Spin In organizer Nancy McMillan, provided a brief history of the Spin In, which has been held in February since 1999. McMillan explained how the event was started in

Remember to purchase your poppy

SDSG – Again this year, the Royal Canadian Legion and their Poppy Committees will honour our veterans and ask for your support for their Remembrance Day ceremonies and by wearing a poppy.

The poppy is a symbol of remembrance for the Canadian men and women armed forces' members who have served to protect our freedom.

The money raised from the Poppy Trust Fund goes toward:

- The cost of medical equipment/special help programs for veterans and their families;

- The "Meals on Wheels" program;
- Assistance for veterans and their families;
- Youth Education – Literary and Poster contests; and
- Funding bursaries and charitable foundations of the Ontario Royal Canadian Legion.

The support from the local businesses, municipal personnel, the many volunteers, Legion members and individuals who help us accomplish this very important part of our Poppy Campaign is greatly appreciated. Many thanks to everyone!

community partners, the federal government and the municipal government to make this project successful.

The project received $25,000 from the federal government, $10,000 from the EDP community fund, with local people and businesses contributing money and services to the restoration project. One of the fundraising projects was the ability for individuals to purchase memorial stones for placement at the site, with Duncan explaining it is still possible to purchase memorial stones with Jim Locke being the person to contact. He continued that the site is close to completion, with a bench and flag poles as well as some stones still to be installed.

SDSG MPP Jim McDonnell expressed his thanks to the committee for their work, with South Dundas Mayor Steven Byvels echoing this sentiment and mentioning how this monument will honour those who have served and sacrificed so that we may enjoy freedoms in this country. Riddle mentioned that it would have been nice if the veterans had been able to see the work done to ensure that their sacrifices are remembered in the community. William Shearing, who has served in the Canadian Armed Forces, in both regular and reserve units, spoke for a few minutes on the contributions of the Stormont Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders during the Second World War, making note of two local servicemen whose names are on the plaque. He then presented to the MMC a framed photo of two servicemen, whose names are listed on the memorial plaque, who had served with the SDG Highlanders and died during The Second World War and whose names are listed on the memorial plaque. Duncan accepted the gift on behalf of the Matilda Memorial Committee and expressed his gratitude to Shearing.

A brief but poignant Ceremony of Remembrance was held with five wreaths laid in memory of the fallen and then the KLP&D played a selection of Scottish and Second World War tunes for the crowd. A prayer of re-dedication was led by Pastor Aaron Thompson, with Duncan concluding the ceremony by reminding those present of the need to remember the sacrifices of those who ensured the continuation of our democracy, and the need for teamwork; in order to successfully complete projects like this.

Following the departure of the Colour Party and the KLP&D, light refreshments were provided by the MMC with an opportunity for fellowship available inside Matilda Hall.

Funding pet rescues

Kory Glover
Record Staff

WINCHESTER – Thanks to the efforts spearheaded by local residents Ed and Linda Honey, pets in North Dundas will have a stronger chance of survival in the event of an emergency.

“The Honeys spearheaded this effort and did all their own fundraising to get us oxygen rescue kits for pets,” said Chesterville fire chief Mike Gruich. “They got us four kits in total. So, now every truck and every station in North Dundas will have these kits.

Each of the rescue kits are valued at approximately $267, not including the cases which were approximately $40.

Ed explained that the price of the cases had recently increased from $39 to around $90; however, after explaining the fundraising efforts to the seller, he and Linda were able to secure a deal at the previous price. “Linda explained what [we] were trying to do and they said: ‘We will match that, we don’t normally but we’ll do that for you.’ That took our costing down significantly for the fundraising,” Ed said.

To ensure no pet is left behind, each kit is equipped with three different size nose-cones for different size pets, mostly for dogs and cats.

“The idea is that, if you had to use it, you would select the right size cone, have it hooked up to an oxygen tank and you just put it over the animal’s face,” said Gruich. “These kits will be available for when we need them.”

North Dundas Mayor Tony Fraser expressed his and the council’s thanks to the Honeys by presenting them with official North Dundas Township pins as a “small token of appreciation.”

“We appreciate your efforts and we appreciate this fine piece of equipment because pets are near and dear to everyone,” he said. “So, thank you so very much Ed and Linda for seeing this through.”

North Dundas deputy mayor Al Armstrong added, “These are sort of the little details we don’t always think about and we can’t really be buying accessories like this... it’s completely heartfelt.”

Pet safety

Through the fundraising efforts of Ed and Linda Honey, the Township of North Dundas was able to acquire four oxygen rescue kits for household pets. Each station will be equipped with one of these kits. ## Setting the scene for Halloween

Residents of Finchview Villa (an independent living facility for seniors) worked together to create an impressive Halloween display. The display included beautifully decorated – predominantly white – pumpkins, hay bales, a 7 ft. wolf, signs, and other spooky decor; and was a group effort coordinated by the tenants. The pumpkins used in the display were grown by the tenants themselves, from seeds preserved from a white pumpkin the year before. When the pumpkins were ready to be harvested, residents collected them, created the display and had a party featuring pumpkin pies!

Re: the Oct 23 front page article titled "EDPR says Nation Rise Wind project is on schedule"

The Editor,

To read last week's Record article on the Nation Rise open house, you would think that all is well in Nation Rise land and that residents should have no worries as EDPR will provide for our safety. The Record's article was unbalanced. Here are some contrasting observations from those shared by Mr. Little:

1. Workers are often on site seven days a week and report working 12-14 hours a day in order to maintain the project schedule. A schedule that allows construction noise including drilling and pounding for days and weeks on end, anywhere between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. to the detriment of residents who are suffering and some of whom do shiftwork.

2. Residents have filed complaints with the MECP for work and traffic issues even outside of those extended hours. It seems to have little impact.

3. There are over 4,600 unresolved complaints on industrial wind projects in Ontario. This one will add to them as they are only required to meet outdated known-inadequate noise guidelines from a decade ago with no consideration of distances between clusters of turbines.

4. While Mr. Little claims that there have been no reports of public injury directly from turbine failures, there is research that shows the actual number of turbine incidents to be at least 10x higher than that reported by the industry. Public injury can take many forms:

a. Mr. Little is careful to choose his words. What about the risk of public injury that is not directly initiated by a turbine failure? Lightning strike comes to mind. How about earth movement from turbines built over Leda clay or a seismic event from the underlying West Quebec Seismic Fault affecting turbines. Turbines that in the majority of cases, received special approval to build so close to a neighbour that an incident could in all probability directly impact their private lands?

b. Coming to North Stormont is a new, higher and larger generation of turbines, the first prototype being installed in Holland only this year. Does EDPR really know what they don't know and are we the Ontario guinea pigs for new unforeseen consequences?

c. What about economic injury? This project is expected to cost North Stormont between $87.5-million to $145-million in lost opportunity to the tax base. Realtors say that homeowners in the vicinity could lose 20 - 30 per cent in potential property value and also will have a much smaller pool of buyers willing to live in proximity.

d. What about quiet enjoyment of property, speeding dump and cement trucks which has also been the source of numerous complaints?

e. Traffic was observed routed uphill into on-coming traffic on County Road 13 without benefit of a flagman even during evening commute times. Presumably traffic related death or injury would not qualify within the narrow definition of a "public injury from a turbine failure" but it has the same impact.

f. It's been reported that 80 or more wells in Chatham Kent were contaminated only to have the wind company essentially tell them: "We don't know what caused your problem, but you can't prove it's me." Loss of access to good clean water is certainly an injury to the affected public.

i. There have already been 5 wells impacted on Nation Rise during the directional drilling process contrary to promises of no well impacts. Can EDP prove there will be no further damage once IWT vibration commences as they don't seem to have any sort of a vibration monitoring plan or will that be the excuse to avoid resolution?

ii. Will EDP avoid the responsibility to prove that our water will be safe? Will they be allowed to continue without a plan for micro-particle sediment testing and independent oversight, as requested? People elsewhere are suffering without recourse.

This letter will continue in next week's edition of The Record.

CASTOR Country

By Tom Van Dusen

Rise of roadkill

"Hey Festus... toss me another hunk of that possum, will ya!"

A couple of characters in tattered topcoats gathered around an open fire roasting on a stake a carcass they found in the ditch, washing it down with home-brew! That's the way we usually picture consumption of roadkill, a custom in which genteel folk such as ourselves would never participate.

Just in time for Halloween tomorrow when zombies, vampires and werewolves roam the countryside, consuming roadkill has been given new, elevated status... it has been sanctioned on CBC Radio, on no less a show than The Current.

Well, not sanctioned per se but seriously, even reverentially discussed, with nary a mention of Halloween by the usual retinue of experts for and against roadkill as a potential component of the sustainable food movement.

As an avid CBC Radio listener, I'm often pleasantly surprised at the diversity of topics. But chowing down on roadkill! That was a food segment I didn't think I'd ever hear tell about on the Mother Corp., Festus!

Come to think about it, I know some folks in Glengarry County, only too pleased to learn even at 2 a.m. that a deer in headlights has been knocked into the ditch down the road.

It doesn't take them long to organize a surreptitious salvage party to collect as much of that fresh roadkill as possible, cut it up and get it home into the freezer. I have a close friend in Glengarry who insists that guests never ask what kind of meat is in the stew and where it came from because they might not like the answer. To my knowledge, her delicious concoctions have never killed anybody.

Health considerations aside, is it legal to take home roadkill in Ontario? I don't recall it ever being an election issue but the good old CBC said you can collect meat from the side of the road with a permit. Really! There's a roadkill collection permit?

On The Current, I learned that various provinces and states handle the matter differently, with some permitting roadkill salvaging and others prohibiting it. There was no mention of how jurisdictions where it's illegal police offenders.

The guest host talked to a woman, a former Toronto vegan who moved to Alaska and soon found herself happily dining on moose and salmon. Before she knew it, she'd graduated - I know it's not the right word - to tasty roadkill collected by the same type of salvage crew I mentioned in Glengarry where every participant gets a fair share of the meat.

To be clear, we're not talking about car-killed squirrels and raccoons. We're talking about recently deceased meaty, delicious deer and moose collected by people who have an idea about health, quality and how to cut it up. It's not a bunch of zombies wading in and fighting over the rotting spoils.

The former vegan has been part of a four-member salvage crew which shared 140 pounds of good, organic, free-range moose meat that didn't cost more than the gas to go pick it up. Being from Toronto, she talked with what I assume was a straight face - it was radio - about how roadkill consumption adds to food sustainability and bypasses industrial meat processors.

Somebody else mentioned - and my Glengarry friend would agree - that dining on roadkill is a way of respecting the wild animals that we run over and leave to rot beside the road. She feels the same way about salvaging their hides and making useful products out of them.

In the name of balanced journalism, the CBC brought on a Pennsylvania expert to cover the "ethical complexities" and a party-pooping University of Guelph professor who cautioned against eating roadkill because of possible contamination and illness that could transfer to the consumer.

The U of G naysayer noted that the highway where a dead animal is collected could be coated with fuel and other chemicals, not to mention physical contaminants such as broken glass... all, in my mind, problems the average adult can resolve, Festus!

I've never deliberately downed roadkill but I have eaten some of that Glengarry stew, so who knows! I may have accidentally eaten something from the side of the road yet lived to tell the tail... I mean tale!

Poppy Campaign kicks off for another year

Kory Glover
Record Staff

WINCHESTER – The Poppy Campaign is one of the Royal Canadian Legion’s biggest fundraisers; raising thousands of dollars for veterans and families of veterans in need every year, and it deserves a proper beginning.

The first ever Poppy Campaign Kick-Off Ceremony in Winchester was held at Sweet Corner Park on Sat., Oct. 26 to invite the North Dundas Council and SDSG MP-elect Eric Duncan to give their blessing for another round of fundraising.

“This is a new event, this is the first time we’ve tried it in this town,” said Shawn Doolan. “Basically, all we want to do is kick off the Poppy Campaign a little more formally than how we’ve done it in the past.”

New SDSG MP-elect Eric Duncan found it fitting that one of his first events to speak at was the Poppy Campaign Kick-Off due to the great respect he has for the fundraiser.

raises money to aid Veterans in financial distress, as well as funding for medical equipment, medical research, home services, long-term care facilities and much more.

“It’s to look after things that aren’t necessarily covered for veterans in need,” said Doolan. “We provide bursaries for their children and grandchildren, provide people in need of home heating or hospital comforts.”

Duncan made a speech during the ceremony, making it one of the first events he’s spoken at in his new position.

“It’s fitting that, as the MP-elect for our riding, one of my first events is the Poppy Campaign,” he said. “Not only does it raise awareness of remembrance across the country and sacrifice that men and women give to our country, but also, as well as help those who are in need. The Legion does wonderful work, not only at this time of year but all year with their community events to give the veterans what they need.”

North Dundas Mayor Tony Fraser added, “I have complete trust with money that has been handled by the executive and it’s nice to be brought up to speed on where the funds are going to go.”

The ceremony ended with cadets Brett Wareham, Dylan Cook and Zachary Wareham volunteering their time to sell poppies to patrons at the Pioneer gas station.

2019 SDG Reads holds final event

Carolyn Thompson Goddard
Record Staff

AVONMORE – There was an air of excitement and intrigue at the 2019 SDG Reads Author Visit on Wed., Oct. 23 at North Stormont Place in Avonmore. In an Oct. 28 press release Susan Wallwork, SDG communications and marketing librarian, explained “SDG Reads is an annual program that runs from May until October at all branches of the SDG Library.” This was the fifth year for the very successful program and featured the Rockton series by Kelley Armstrong. Wallwork continued that participants were encouraged “to read any, or all, of the four books in the series. In addition to the author visit, library programs were also offered throughout the time period.” A crowd estimated to be just under 200 people were at the event which featured a visit from Canadian author Armstrong.

Armstrong who hails from southwestern Ontario, has written over 30 books mainly for adults and middle school students. The author mentioned how she loved reading from an early age and this led to her career as a writer. She commented her works can be described as a combination of murder mysteries with a touch of the supernatural throughout. Her next book in the Rockton series, Alone in the Wild, is expected to be for sale in early 2020.

Prior to the main event, a VIP reception was held in the Avonmore Branch of the SDG Library. This was the first year for the VIP reception, a fundraiser for the SDG County Library, which provided a small group of people the chance to meet with the author and enjoy light refreshments.

There was a “Welcome to Rockton” sign at the registration desk and upon entering the main hall of NSP the decorations gave you a sense of the wilds of the Rockton area, the fictional Yukon setting for her series. They certainly set the stage for Armstrong’s presentation at the event with director of library services, Karen Franklin, commented in the press release how “every year the program grows in participation and our staff continue to impress at the final event.”

For more information on this and other services provided by the SDG Library please visit www.sdglibrary.ca or call your local public library. Information on Kelley Armstrong can be found on her website www.kelleyarmstrong.com.

Spooky Saturday in South Stormont

There was plenty of supernatural happenings in South Stormont this past Saturday when the Friends of the Ingleside Library celebrated All Hallow's Eve in style on Oct. 26. Linda Prieur, staff member at the Ingleside Branch of the SDG County Library, was pleased with the turnout of people at the library's Halloween Party. Prieur explained the party was sponsored by the Friends of the Ingleside Library with pumpkins supplied by the Rombough family who run Seven Acres Family Farm. The library was abuzz with costumed children and adults enjoying some seasonal crafts and activities in the library which was decorated for the spooky season. Prieur complimented the high school students who volunteered at the Saturday morning event and mentioned how they assisted at the craft tables throughout the library. Thompson Goddard photo

Remembrance Day

LEST WE FORGET

How and why we celebrate Remembrance Day

Remembrance Day has been recognized in Canada since 1931. However, the occasion was initially known as Armistice Day, and was exclusively a celebration of the end of World War I. Here's what Remembrance Day is all about today and how you can celebrate it.

Remembrance Day in Canada

Remembrance Day is celebrated annually on November 11 to honour the contributions of all military service members who gave their lives defending our nation. Similar commemorative events, such as Decoration Day in June and Paardeberg Day in February, were held before World War I. However, the scale of the Great War and the extensive human cost incurred by the conflict led to the adoption of a single celebration.

Canada's armed forces have since been involved in a number of conflicts, including World War II, the Korean War, the Gulf War and the war in Afghanistan, as well as a long list of peacekeeping operations across the globe. Veterans of these wars are likewise honoured on Remembrance Day.

How to celebrate Remembrance Day

Here are some ideas for honouring our veterans and their bravery:

- Wear the poppy over your heart;
- Observe two minutes of silence at 11 a.m. on November 11;
- Attend a Remembrance Day ceremony in your region;
- Speak with veterans, or listen to interviews with them;
- Learn more about Canada's memorial monuments;
- Visit a war museum or memorial in your region; and/or
- Learn more about Canada's involvement in a conflict, peacekeeping mission or humanitarian effort.

To learn more about Remembrance Day visit www.veterans.gc.ca.

CDHS celebrates 35 years

Continued from the front 1999 by CDHS member Margot Dixon and was originally held in the Heritage Centre, moving first to the Nelson Laprade Centre and then to its present location in the Chesterville Legion, as the event continued to grow over the years. McMillan mentioned in 2019 that there were 60 plus spinners and knitters at the day long event as well as several vendors and a good turnout of interested spectators. She continued that the event is designed to promote spinning and knitting as well as heritage breeds and local fibre production. CDHS president, Ashley Harper, concluded the presentations at the event with a brief history of the CDHS. She explained that in 1983, Rotarian Fred Cass, who was looking for a place to store decades of Rotary bulletins, approached the Rotary Club of Chesterville for assistance. Subsequently the Chesterville Heritage Committee was formed to investigate this, and a few months later the Chesterville & District Historical Society was formed with approximately 20 people joining the organization. The Chesterville Heritage Centre, located in a building that was built in 1867, has served the community as a school, a church, a police station, a fire station and the Winchester Township Hall. The CHC now serves its community as a location for artifacts to be stored and accessed by interested individuals. Harper explained the collection is being digitalized and accessioned, before commenting how individually the artifacts tell the story of a family, but together they tell the story of a community. Lost Villages Historical Society president, Jim Brownell, attended the event and commented to The Chesterville Record as the evening ended how it was “just wonderful to be here, celebrating a memorable year for the historical society. It was evident from Ashley’s speech that much has been done in the past as the Historical Society heads to the future.” Harper expressed how she was “more than pleased” with the event, which featured a silent auction containing many donations from a community that truly cares about its history.

Business in the modern world

Kory Glover

WINCHESTER – Small Business Week has passed for the entrepreneurs of Dundas County and, hopefully, businesses have had a chance to learn and network to continue thriving and growing. As part of the celebrations, on Wed., Oct. 23, the North and South Dundas Chamber of Commerce brought in special guest Doug Dvorak to speak at the Winchelsea.

Dvorak is the CEO of The Sales Coaching Institute, a worldwide organization that assists clients with sales coaching, productivity training and motivational sales excellence management workshops. He is also a certified management consultant, sales trainer and executive coach; holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration, Master of Business Administration in marketing management and a Doctor of Laws "degree h.c.", according to a press release from North Dundas Chamber of Commerce.

"It is very exciting that we were able to get Doug [Dvorak] to come and speak with us," said Mary Tessier, administrative coordinator of the North Dundas Chamber of Commerce.

The Chesterville Record was able to catch up to Dvorak to discuss the important elements of what he hopes business owners will take away from his presentation.

"Small businesses in small, rural or semi-rural areas can leverage the tools that are available to [them] through social media, software applications to really give them a big reach in terms of sales and marketing," he said. "The areas of entry for a small business to utilize and leverage digital marketing are pennies opposed to what used to be hundreds of dollars. You could build a website for a few hundred dollars through GoDaddy or Wix; you can optimize that and really get a local, regional and national reach through social media, search engine optimization and digital marketing."

Dvorak agreed that in order to be successful in the world of business today, building a website and creating a presence on social media is a key factor. Without utilizing the tools of today, newly established entrepreneurs are going to find it increasingly challenging to find success in today's modern age. During his presentation, Dvorak challenged the crowd to think about if they have a business or a hobby, and stated: "If your business isn't growing it's on a slow motion liquidation."

A special guest

The North and South Dundas Chamber of Commerce invited special guest Doug Dvorak to speak to rural entrepreneurs to teach them how to become more successful in today's modern world. Also pictured, North Dundas Chamber of Commerce administrative coordinator Mary Tessier (left) and South Dundas Chamber of Commerce general manager Geraldine Fitzsimmons.

Throughout the week, owners throughout Dundas Dvorak also met with County for private several small business consultations.

Seniors seeking activity space

Kory Glover
Villager Staff

RUSSELL – The Russell 55+ Club wants to engage in more physical activity but there’s no place for them to go... except maybe a youth centre that’s mostly vacant 75 per cent of the year.

“We want to be able to have this area for free because we’re seniors and this centre is empty most of the time,” said Elisabet King, vice president of the club.

The group held an open house at the Russell Community & Sport Centre behind Russell High School on Fri., Oct. 25 to show off the activities they would like to use the space for, if granted permission to do so.

“We’re doing this [open house] because we’re trying to get an interest from people to say, ‘Hey, you know what, we’re interested in doing activities here, we want this building and we should have access to it,’” added King.

While the group came up with a long list of activities that would capture the interest of the seniors in the area, they also took suggestions from other members and even other senior residents in the township.

“We’ve got 23 activities and they’re all from different areas including the arts, photography, creative writing, music, choir and even computers, tablets and smartphone lessons,” said group member Don Anderson. “Realistically, in this township, one in every four people is over the age of 55, we want to try to attract more seniors by [offering] more general activities.”

King added, “We also have a suggestion area because we try to think of things people would like but, really, people have been coming to us since then saying, ‘Well, what about music lessons?’”

The goal of this open house was simply to show the community that they are here and that the Russell 55+

Club exists. “We just want to let people know that we exist and that we want to help you,” said King.

Successful fundraiser brings in over $4,000

Last week was a busy one, whether it was sports or other events; I’ll make sure to cover everything. To start off, Mrs. Giesbrecht’s Grade 12 Religion class participated in a day of service at Waupoos Family Farm last Monday. The day included time for prayer, several hours of work and a wagon ride. On Wed., Oct. 23, Ms. Timmins’ Grade 12 Religion class organized a cancer fundraiser; for $5, students could get a hotdog lunch and wear the designated shirt colour that supports the cancer type of their choice. High school students were able to partake in an afternoon of activities. In total, a whopping $4,038.65 was raised for the Ottawa Regional Cancer Foundation to help with cancer research! Fantastic effort, Ravens! Additionally, last Thursday MADD Canada came by and gave a presentation to our Grade 11 and 12 students. After watching a short movie, students discussed how to stop impaired driving and a local police officer provided real life examples. Moving onto sports, our varsity cross-country team had a successful run last Friday with Rebecca Greer finishing 4th and Isabel Garcia finishing 10th; both qualifying for OFSAA. As for golf, Hailey Denis competed in OFSAA’s Golf Championship in London, Ontario. She represented STA well, finishing 16th out of 60 participants! Finally, for soccer, our Junior and Senior teams won all their games at Plantagenet this past Tuesday. The Juniors won 3-0 against L’Escale and 2-1 against ESSC and our Seniors 2-0 against ESSC and a big win of 10-0 over St. Fx. That’s all for now Ravens, have a good Halloween!

T-Wolf running champ makes it to OFSAA

Hello everyone! Welcome back to another great week at RHS!

Last week, the Grade 11/12 Link Crew class held a “Fun and Fright Night” for our Grade 9 T-Wolves here at RHS! The T-Wolves had so much fun on that dark and stormy night with board games, big screen video games and even an escape room! Thanks to all the students who participated and the parents who attended our parent-teacher interviews the same night!

Yet again, sports here at RHS are thriving, as some of our cross-country runners went to EOSSAA in Petawawa last week to represent RHS on the long-distance running level! Congrats to Jacob Hill for qualifying for OFSAA! Today, the Senior and Junior girls’ basketball teams head to Rockland to finish their regular seasons vs RDHS and L’Escale! Good luck T-Wolves! Finally, the Senior and Junior boys’ volleyball teams will be finishing their seasons this week as well. Next week, we move on to girls’ volleyball and boys’ basketball.

Also today, we are holding our Intermediate Character Awards to recognize our students with outstanding behaviour and attitude toward classmates and teachers around the school! Well done T-Wolves! Congrats on being recognized for such great accomplishments!

Have yet another great week T-Wolves! I know I will, because it’s my birthday this Friday! Have a fun and safe Halloween – but don’t eat all your candy on the first night! Good luck at OFSAA Jacob!

Bursting with flavour

Kory Glover
Villager Staff

EMBRUN – Who knew Russell Township was bursting with so much flavour?

Local residents gathered at the Embrun Community Centre on Sat., Oct. 26 to take part in the fourth annual Local Flavours event to meet with local breweries and producers and get to know exactly what is offered in their area. This year’s recipient for the funds raised during the event will be the 5 Cyclone Royal Canadian Air Cadets.

“We have businesses from all over the township and also Orleans, out of the region,” said Dominique Tremblay, director of planning, building, economic development. “We are selling food, wine and beer.”

This year, a total of 21 vendors set up shop, same as last year’s event. The organizers admitted that they would like to invite more businesses to the event but the community centre is already at full capacity.

“Obviously we would want to expand as much as possible and make sure we are accommodating as many businesses as we can but space is an issue,” said Tremblay. “We know that council is really pushing to keep this event going and get bigger, but we’ll have to find other options for sure.”

Upon leaving the event, Tremblay hopes that people will become more aware of the local businesses and producers in the area, helping to keep local businesses thriving.

“I hope that people will be able to recognize businesses that they didn’t know before and they’ll know what businesses will be serving what,” she said. “They’re going to be tasting something that they’ll want to taste again and then go and visit those businesses.”

Halloween safety tips

EMBRUN – The Russell County Detachment of the OPP would like to remind parents/guardians and children that Halloween can be a time of both excitement and potential danger. Help keep everyone safe by following these safety tips: Carry a flashlight and select a costume with bright colours and reflective material to increase visibility to drivers; use makeup instead of masks. Masks can reduce one’s ability to see obstacles, vehicles and other people; avoid baggy, long and oversized costumes that can be a tripping hazard; walk, don’t run and remember to stop, look and listen before crossing the street; never criss-cross the street. Cross at crosswalks or intersections. Call on one side of the street, then the other; never trick or treat alone, go in a group or with an adult; if trick or treating with friends, tell your parents/guardians your route and when you will be home; stay in familiar neighbourhoods and only go to homes that are well lit and that are participating in

Halloween; never go inside a house to get your treat; and always have your treats checked by an adult before eating them.

Motorists are reminded to drive with caution and be on the lookout for trick or treaters throughout the afternoon and evening. Following the above safety tips and using common sense will allow you to have a safe and fun Halloween.

HONOUR AND REMEMBER

The Remembrance Day Ceremony has played a major role in Remembrance since 1931. Every year, at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, we gather in memorial parks, community halls, workplaces, schools and homes to stand in honour of all who have fallen. Together, we observe a moment of silence to mark the sacrifice of the many who have fallen in the service of their country, and to acknowledge the courage of those who still serve.
